LADIES

The women of our city and vicinity come to this store for housekeeping articles because we make every effort to please them. Whenever we find an article that will help the housewife to do her work easier and better, we add it to our large stock of housewares and we sell our goods at fair prices, that's why this store has become so popular with the housekeepers in this vicinity. We cordially invite all women to visit our hardware section and see the many things we have collected here for helping them do their housework.

For the first time in many months a double-header freight went out of the city yesterday afternoon. In other words, the load was so heavy that one engine was required to pull it while the other one pushed. This sight used to be common when conditions were normal but have been entirely missing of late.

Word has been received that the New England Theatre, Inc., of Boston has engaged James S. Bennett of this city to sing to their production of "My Wild Irish Rose," now the rage in all the high-class movie houses. Mr. Bennett will sing Chauncey Olcott's "My Wild Irish Rose" at the Broadway theatre at Chelsea, Mass., one of the best houses in the Boston district.

A very enjoyable masquerade and concert was held in the Spaulding assembly hall last evening. The program was made up of ghostly stories and songs very much in keeping with the costumes in which almost everyone was dressed. After the program was over a grand march took place and dancing followed. The two prizes for the best make-up went to Rhoda Booth and Leone Reynolds. Miss Booth was prettily disguised as a milk maid and Miss Reynolds as a radio operator.

In an outbreak of thievery in Barre last night, J. O. Beckley lost one hundred pounds of cracked corn and a hen and E. E. Newcomb lost enough black wood to fill at least a wheelbarrow. These two cases were in widely separated parts of the city, the Beckley corn and hen being in the barn at the city farm on the East Montpelier road and the wood being at Mr. Newcomb's residence on Allen street on the west hill. In each case, a wheelbarrow was used to carry the goods to the guilty party. At the raid on the barn on the East Montpelier road, the thief selected an old hen out of a flock of five. The cracked corn was in a bag on the floor. At the Newcomb residence the thief must have had a wheelbarrow in order to carry off so much wood.

A pleasant meeting of the Men's club of the Universalist church was held last evening when about thirty people sat down to a fine supper served by the ladies' union of the church. Mark Cutler, as president of the club, presided. The chief speaker of the evening was O. L. Martin of Plainfield, master of the state grange, who described his trip to Kentucky and Oklahoma as an over-see of the national grange, telling of the political, social and economic conditions he found in those states. Other speakers were H. C. Ladd and Rev. W. H. Skeels, pastor of the Universalist church. Music consisted of a vocal solo by Mr. Bailey of Goddard seminary, a piano solo by Mr. Versluis of the seminary and a community singing by the club. It was voted that the Men's club affiliate with the Universalist Comrades, the national organization of similar clubs in the Universalist church.

"We have filmed your book, professor," said the moving picture director, "and a check for $5000 is waiting for you."

"But I hardly feel that I should take it," replied the college professor. "I saw the book and it doesn't resemble the book at all. You see, there has been a mistake."

"O, don't let that trouble you. Our scenario writer can turn anything into a photograph, no matter what it is. By the way, what was the name of your novel?"

"That's what I want to explain," answered the professor. "I made a mistake. Instead of sending you my novel I sent you my text on algebra."

Another remarkable group of New Trimmed Hats 2.95 and 3.95

The response which we received from our offering of last week was highly gratifying. Here is another group for Saturday just as remarkable as last week's.

Off-the-face models—jaunty turbans—chic close hats—large drooping shapes—of Lyons' velvet, velour, panne, and brocades—with ostrich, burnt feathers, coque and novelty ornaments.

About all the colors fashion dictates including navy, brown and black.

Hats for Misses and Children

They vie with those for matrons in smartness and style—

1.50, 2.50 to 3.98

You may choose from a number of styles in French Felt and suedene, or velvet and plush or brushed wool or duvetyne—and the assortment of colors runs from the brilliant tones of red, green, rose and blue, the soft shades of buff, fawn and gray to the deep rich tones of navy, brown and black.

NORTHFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Davis, who have been visiting his sister in Cabot, returned to their home on North street Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Slack left Friday for an auto trip to Northfield, Mass., where they will spend a few days with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Welch, who have been spending the past two weeks at the home of Elder and Mrs. Orza Boyce returned Friday to their home.

Miss Helen Doran, teacher in the Northfield high school, has been confined to her home by illness the past week, her place has been taken by Mrs. Raymond Giffin.

The board of officers appointed on orders from headquarters of the 97th Division U. S. army met in Northfield the past week and conducted an examination of applicants for commissions in the officers reserve corps. The board of officers consisted of the following officers: Major Charles B. Amory, cavalry, Fort Ethan Allen, H. M. Howe, infantry, Northfield, Lieut. T. M. Donahue, infantry, Northfield, Lieut. William H. Hurley, medical corps.

Mrs. P. D. Pike, who has been in Northfield for the past year, has gone to Florida, for the winter. She accompanied the first of the week and has been in Northfield during the summer with her niece, Mrs. P. G. Greene.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. White and daughters were in Middlesex Friday to attend the funeral of Mrs. White's mother.

Mrs. J. C. McCarthy went to Burlington the first of the week and entered Fanny Allen hospital for treatment. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Frank Foley.

Hotel Guest Bolts With Costly Jewel. Details became known yesterday, says a recent issue of the London Times, of a carefully-planned and successfully executed trick carried out at the Piccadilly hotel by which two assistants of Messrs. Mappin and Webb, the jewelers, were robbed of a diamond ring valued at £300.

Posing as an American, J. Bolman of New York, a man engaged in suite of rooms on the fourth floor of the Piccadilly hotel on Monday, slept there the night and on Tuesday called at the Regent street premises of Messrs. Mappin and Webb. He looked at a number of diamond rings and asked for several to be sent down to the hotel for his wife to make her choice. The manager was rather suspicious, and sent one of most experienced assistants and another employee to the hotel with strict injunctions that the rings were not to go out of their sight.

At the hotel they were received by "Mr. Bolman" in his private sitting room. He asked if he might take the rings across the corridor to the bedroom in which he said his wife was lying ill at the same time nodding to a girl in the same time nodding to an old trick, the chief assistant promptly said that he was not at liberty to let any rings out of his sight without the manager's permission. The manager was paid for. The man protested, but at last began examining the rings himself. He picked out one of the finest, and then suddenly pushed the assistants away, dashed through the door and closed it.

Both men jumped after him, but when one seized the door knob it came off in his hands. The screw securing it to the central pin had been removed. They ran to the bell, and found the rope had been cut, and when they tried the house telephone they got no answer, as it had been put out of action. Finally, they went to the window, and eventually succeeded in attracting attention, but by the time they were released from the room in which they had been trapped the man had vanished with the diamond ring.

There had never been any woman with him, and he explained her absence at the hotel by saying that she was following later with the luggage, and in that way had dismissed any doubts there, might have been as to the genuine character of his visit. He is described as a well-dressed man about 5 feet 11 inches in height, of medium build, and with dark hair and a small moustache.

A Matter of Spelling.

"Bill," said sailor looking up from his writing, "do you spell sense with a 'c' or an 's'?"

"That depends," replied his friend. "Do you refer to cents, meaning money, or sense, meaning brains?"

"Aw, I don't mean either of them," was the reply. "What I want to say is 'I ain't seen him sense.'"—Boston Transcript.
